“ To the Honorable Senate of New-Hampshire now in session, June 5th, 1833.

Having been constitutionally elected senator in the sixth senatorial district in this state for the current year by a clear and fair majority of all the votes cast in said district on the 12th day of March, and believing the electors to have deposited their ballots under the expectation of a willingness on my part to accept the trust, and to sustain, by all lawful means, their rights, secured to them by the Constitution and laws of the state, I cannot, without a just forfeiture of their confidence, yield those rights, vested in me by their suffrages.

Therefore in the name and in behalf of the electors in said district, I respectfully ask the Hon. Senate to exercise their constitutional power, in judging of their own elections, and to cause the votes for senator in said district, to be laid before them and the same to be canvassed, declaring the result according to the will of the people.

I have the honor to be with perfect respect,

your obedient servant,

WARREN LOVELL."

On motion of Mr. Corbin—

Resolved, That the senate do concur in the appointment of a committee agreeably to the above resolution.

Ordered, That the clerk notify the House of Representatives accordingly.

A message from the House of Representatives by their clerk: "Mr. President,—The House of Representatives have passed a resolution, adopting the joint rules of the two branches of the Legislature for the year 1832, for the present session, or until others be adopted, in which they ask the concurrence of the senate."

On motion of Mr. Farrington—

Resolved, That the senate do concur in the passage of the foregoing resolution.

Ordered, That the clerk notify the House of Representatives accordingly.

Mr. Barton from the committee, to whom was referred the communication of Warren Lovell, Esq. together with other papers relative to the election of senator in senatorial district No. 6, with instructions to report thereon, made the following REPORT.

The Constitution declares, that the Senate shall be final judges of the election, returns and qualifications of its own members as pointed out in this constitution. By making the Senate final judges, as well of the returns as the qualifications of its members, there can be no doubt, that it was intended to confer on this body a supervisory power, in such cases, over the doings of the Governor and Council, whose duty it is, to examine the returned copies of the records of the votes in the several towns, and, fourteen days before the first Wednesday of June, to issue summons to such persons as appear to be chosen Senators by a majority of votes, to attend and take their seats in that body, leaving it to the final decision of the senate to determine, whether the prima facie evidence of the returns (on which the Governor and Council alone rely to determine, who appear to be elected) was correct, or whether a deficiency or want of formality in the returns had left a vacancy to be supplied, or caused summons to be issued to a person who did not, in fact, receive a majority of the votes. The Committee had, therefore, no difficulty in arriving at the conclusion, that the case under consideration is precisely one of those contemplated in the provision of the Constitution, which makes the Senate the final judges of the election of their own members.

Having arrived at this conclusion, neither the comparative merits of the different persons voted for, nor any extraneous circumstance could make any part of the inquiry of the Committee.

The only question which seemed to come within the scope of their inquiry was one of fact merely, viz :—"Did the individual claiming a seat in this body from District No. 6, receive a majority of the votes cast in said District ?

It appears by the Secretary's record of the proceedings of the Governor and Council and by the returns themselves, that there are returns from all the towns in District No. 6, and that all are made in form prescribed by the Constitution ; that the whole number of votes returned amount to 3039 making 1520 necessary for a choice ; that Samuel Tilton has 1472 and that there are 12 scattering votes : that Warren Lovell has 1519, one vote less than the requisite number for a choice ; and that William Lovell has 36 votes which 36 votes were returned by the town clerk of the town of Eaton. It further appeared to your committee from the testimony of the said town clerk and selectmen of Eaton, that the 36 votes, returned from the said town of Eaton for William Lovell, were actually given, declared in open town meeting by the Moderator thereof, and recorded in the town records by the clerk of said town, as given for Warren Lovell, and that an error in transcribing the return from the record occurred, by which it was made to appear to the Governor and Council that 36 votes were given for William Lovell, which were in fact given for Warren Lovell. Had these 36 votes been correctly returned to the Governor and Council, it would have appeared that Warren Lovell had received 1555 votes, 35 more than was necessary for a choice and 71 more than were given for all other persons.

By a law of this state passed June 17 1801, it is enacted, 'that if the Clerk of any town neglect to make return of the votes of such town agreeably to the Constitution, for all or any of the offices aforesaid, he shall, for each and every such neglect, forfeit and pay a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, nor less than twenty dollars, to be recovered by indictment, the one moiety thereof to the use of the prosecutor, and the other moiety thereof to the use of the town to which such delinquent clerk shall belong.' Although the law makes it the imperative duty of the Town Clerk to return the votes within a prescribed time and in a prescribed form, and subjects him to a penalty, in case of neglect, yet, your Committee are not aware, that it is any where provided, or even intimated, in any part of the Constitution or in any law of this state, that the election of any person shall be made void, or his seat declared vacant, who shall have received a majority of the votes of his district, in consequence of the neglect of the town clerk to make a true return of the votes, or of a want of a formality, or any error in the return itself.

The returning officer, for such error or neglect makes himself liable to prosecution and may be held responsible for the penalty, but the people should not thereby be deprived of their choice, nor the person receiving a majority of votes, be deprived of his seat in consequence.

It could never have been the intention of the framers of the Constitution to place within the hands of the returning officer, the power to defeat the choice of the people, as is manifest from that clause of the Constitution which makes the Senate final judges of the returns, as well as of the qualifications of its members, such a practice is not only not warranted by the letter of the Constitution but is at war with the very spirit of our institutions; subversive of the rights of the people and tending to great abuses and corruption. With these general views of the subject and believing it the duty of the Senate to carry fully into effect the voice of the people of District No. 6, as expressed by their votes on the second Tuesday of March last,—this report and the accompanying resolution are submitted for the consideration of the Senate.

CYRUS BARTON, for the Committee.

Resolved, That Warren Lovell, having received a majority of the votes cast for Senator in District No. 6, is duly entitled to a seat in this body.

IN SENATE.

The Secretary of State came in, and presented to the Senate the following written communication from His Excellency the Governor.

MESSAGE.

Gentlemen of the Senate,
and of the House of Representatives:

IN accepting the trusts which our fellow citizens have confided to us, we have assumed a high and solemn responsibility. Constituted, for a time, the guardians of the public interests, the manner in which we may perform the duties incumbent on us in that relation, cannot fail to have an influence favorable or adverse, upon the honor and prosperity of the State. Sensible of the obligations this charge imposes, it will be my most anxious desire to consult, on all occasions, the best good of those whom we represent, and it will always afford me pleasure to unite with you in such measures as may be designed to advance their happiness and welfare.

Fortunate as our State has ever been, at no period in its history could its condition and prospects have been more truly the subject of grateful thanksgiving than at the present time. Other States may be renowned for greater extent of territory, a more fertile soil, or more magnificent schemes of public improvement. In these possessions and achievements of powerful and wealthy communities we must be content to remain undistinguished;—but in every thing which contributes to the moral and intellectual elevation and rational happiness for the individual, and to the sound and durable prosperity of the community, we should be ungrateful not to feel that we are conspicuously favored. By necessity and habit, industrious and frugal;—moral and educated from the example and institutions derived from a pious and enlightened ancestry;—and free and equal from the practical operation as well as theory, of our government and laws, our citizens are in that happy condition most favourable perhaps, to the growth and security of liberty, intelligence and virtue.

It is gratifying to be assured, that there are few if any subjects of general interest or importance which the public voice urges upon your consideration at this time. We have reason to believe that little remains undone, which is required for the protection of individual rights, the encouragement of industry and enterprise, and the preservation of the public peace and safety. Our laws, though scarcely felt from the lightness of their pressure, are sure and effectual in their operation, and in no community are they more readily or cheerfully obeyed.

If there be a single cause of dissatisfaction which may be considered as an exception to the general truth of these remarks, it is to be found in the still difficult and perplexed posture of our militia. The apparent acquiescence in the present system, which has succeeded the loud complaints against it, is no evidence, I fear, of its having become more acceptable to the people, but is believed to have been produced by a general conviction that such a unanimity of sentiment in regard to the extent and mode of change as is required for any essential and permanent modification of it, cannot be looked for at present. The fruitless deliberations of the Legislature upon this subject through many successive sessions certainly go far to show, that all action upon it is embarrassed with great, if not insuperable difficulties. It may, therefore, be thought importunate in me to persist in pressing it upon your notice, but believing as I do, that the preservation of the militia in some well organized form is of vital importance to the country, and being well persuaded that unless something is done soon to sustain it, it cannot long survive the too general disfavour into which it is rapidly falling, I feel it to be my duty, more particularly than ever, to ask your immediate attention to it. Every year's observation affords additional proof that the interest felt in supporting the system as at present organized is fast declining. The zeal and activity of the Department having charge of its administration, seconded by the efforts of spirited and intelligent officers, and the example of numerous corps distinguished for their excellent discipline, perfect equipments, and all the military ardour of the militia of the state in its best days; have been vainly exerted to continue it upon that footing of uniform respectability which is either satisfactory to its friends, or likely to render its benefits equivalent to the large amount of time and money expended in maintaining it. It cannot be doubted that a disposition hostile to certain features of the system, exist pretty generally throughout the state, and in some parts to a degree, which renders it impossible to carry it into effect. Some companies are without officers, and officers are found without adequate commands. Instances are not rare in which the provisions of the law requiring the stated appearance of companies for drill and inspection is not even in form complied with. In others, when an appearance is obtained, the occasion is not unfrequently seized, for converting what was intended to be a school of discipline, into scenes of levity and insubordination. It is with reluctance, and from an anxious desire to preserve to the militia its usefulness, by raising its character and dignity, that I feel constrained to speak of any portion of it in terms, other than those of unqualified commendation.—It must be painful to every one to see an institution which our fathers cherished as the natural and sure safeguard of their liberties—whose achievements fill the most brilliant pages in our history, and not long since a popular favorite, sunk so low in public estimation as to have become an object of mockery and derision. No one can be more ready than myself to do justice to the large and respectable portion of the militia whose honorable exertions to keep up the credit of the system, under many discouragements, are worthy of all praise. In all the qualities which should form the character of the citizen soldier they have never been surpassed. It is to rescue this part of the militia from contagious influences, before the spirit and discipline of the whole body are impaired, that I would respectfully but earnestly beg you to interpose. How the necessary reform may be best effected, is undoubtedly a problem of difficult solution. Without undertaking to furnish the details of any plan for the improvement of the militia system, which may with more propriety be referred to your wisdom, intelligence, and more extensive acquaintance with the wishes of the people in the various parts of the State, I may be allowed to observe, that any alterations which shall not have in view a very considerable reduction of the number now liable to military service, or an increase of the motives to a faithful and cheerful performance of duty, either by a moderate compensation to the soldier, or an equivalent diminution of his public charges, will, I fear be found on trial to be an insufficient remedy for the evils referred to.

In compliance with a request of the last Legislature, the selectmen of the several towns and places in the State were directed to cause the sense of the people to be taken in relation to the call of a Convention for a revision of the Constitution. It is well understood that the people have decided by a very great majority against the call.

If this decision may be regarded as a full and deliberate expression of public sentiment, we may rest satisfied, that whatever speculatively anti-republican features are to be observed in some of the provisions of the Constitution, or however offensive to the tastes may be portions of its language, these are rather the suggestions of a watchful, but too sensitive patriotism, sometimes alarmed even at fancied dangers, than the sources of any substantial evils in the practical operation of that Instrument.—It appears to me to furnish a gratifying proof of the respect and veneration with which the framers of the Constitution are still regarded, and of the excellence and perfection of that work of their wisdom, under which we have enjoyed so much public prosperity and individual happiness, without justifying in any degree the apprehension, that we are growing less careful of our liberties or more indifferent to the progress of modern improvement. A blind acquiescence in the errors and absurdities of antiquated systems could never, probably, be laid to our charge with less propriety than now;—and our whole history bears witness that no people have approached more boldly the work of necessary reformation in whatever concerns the great interests of mankind than have the citizens of this State.

I have great satisfaction in being able to state to you the successful operation of our new Judiciary System. It has thus far answered the most sanguine expectations of its friends and con-radical to our government. 3 ciliated the favourable opinion of all. It is believed that the important ends for which the administration of justice was designed, are now attained with greatly diminished expense and delay.

From the report of the Warden of the State Prison which will be presented to you early in the session, it will be seen that the improvements in the Prison are completed, and the new cells occupied by the convicts. Although the expenses of construction have considerably exceeded the original estimates, I am assured that satisfactory explanations will be furnished of this unexpected result, in the Superintendent's report.

In former communications to the Legislature I have recommended to their notice the condition and sufferings of the Insane. Their claims have been fully exhibited in the several reports made under the directions of the General Court, and the expediency of adopting measures for their relief has been ably and feelingly advocated in the course of the Legislative proceedings on the subject. Although your predecessors did not feel prepared to sanction the measures recommended, I have never lost the hope of seeing, at an early period, a zealous co-operation of the several branches of the Government with the friends of suffering humanity in promoting a charity so plainly recommended by the principles of our religion and by every consideration of justice and philanthropy. While the most liberal provision is made for the victims of their own idleness and vice, with an inconsistency not easily accounted for, we abandon those who are afflicted with a calamity of all others demanding sympathy and solace, to a state of unalleviated wretchedness and almost-hopeless incurability. From a somewhat attentive examination of the history of experiments undertaken elsewhere for the security and recovery of the Insane, I have no doubt remaining, that policy as well as humanity require of us something in behalf of that unfortunate class.—Our resources are fortunately ample for accomplishing this object; but should there be an unwillingness to appropriate the State funds to the extent required, there can be no doubt that a liberal and christian community would cheerfully supply the deficiency. Nothing could be more truly honorable to our State character, or give stronger proof, that we are willing to assist in the triumph of modern civilization.

In connection with this subject, I would take occasion to observe, that I have recently received communications from very respectable sources in this State and elsewhere, in relation to an Institution lately established at Boston called the New-England Asylum for the Blind. I am led to understand, although my information in regard to this point is by no means explicit, that like the kindred Institution at Hartford, it is the design and wish of the New-England Asylum to admit to its privileges such blind children as may be placed there under the patronage of other States. That there are amongst us many indigent blind children who are proper objects of the State's bounty, cannot be doubted, but the absence of all precise or authentic information relative to their circumstances or numbers, allows me only to present the subject to your consideration.

Since the last meeting of the Legislature, some of our relations, which were for a time threatened with disturbance, have assumed a more gratifying aspect. An unhappy and agitating controversy, which was calculated to excite the most gloomy apprehensions for the peace of the country and the preservation of the Union, has at length been adjusted, if not on terms to perfectly reconcile all opposing interests, yet it is hoped, in a manner to permit and invite a return of those pacific and fraternal relations which should ever subsist between the different members of our Republic.

As it is my determination to retire from the public councils at the expiration of my present term of official service, I am unwilling the occasion should pass without a grateful acknowledgment of the kindness which, as a public servant, I have uniformly experienced at the hands of my fellow citizens. Their favors have immeasurably exceeded my merits, as they have the hopes I had ever presumed to entertain.

Inadequate as has been the return for their long continued generosity and indulgence, I have the consolation of reflecting that whatever may have been the results of my official acts, all my humble efforts as a public man have been directed by an ardent wish to discharge faithfully and acceptably my duty to the State.

SAMUEL DINSMOOR.

IN CONVENTION.

His Excellency the Governor, the Honorable Council and both branches of the Legislature being convened in the Representatives' Hall, at fifteen minutes before eleven o'clock, Andrew Jackson, President of the United States, accompanied by Martin Van Buren, Vice-President of the United States, and suite and escorted by the committee of arrangements, was announced by the marshal of the day, and received by the Legislature.

The President of the United States was then introduced by the Marshall, to the Governor of the State, who addressed him as follows.

“ Mr. President—The visit, Sir, with which you have been pleased to honour the Legislature of New-Hampshire, and the opportunity which you have so kindly afforded us, of witnessing, in this Hall, the presence of the chief Magistrate of the United States, renders us truly happy. We rejoice, Sir, to see you; and not only for myself, individually, but in behalf of the Legislature here assembled, and the people of the State over which I have the honour to preside, you will allow me to tender to you the sentiments of our high regard for your person and character, our warmest gratitude for your eminent and invaluable public services, both in the Cabinet and in the Field, rendered to our common Country, and our most cordial welcome to the capital of the State—Yes, Sir, we would, again and again, with the kindest feelings and with the most generous emotions of our hearts, thrice welcome you to New-Hampshire.”

To which the President made the following reply.

“ Sir, I am truly grateful for the kind reception, you have given to me, in behalf of the Government and State of New-Hampshire; and for the favorable terms, in which, you have been pleased to allude to my publick services.—A just sense of the high character, which your State enjoys, heightens the satisfaction which I have derived from this visit to its capital; a visit which, I assure you, more than confirms all that I had anticipated, favorable as it was, of your institutions and of their happy effect upon the moral and social condition of your citizens.—It is a source of deep regret to me, that neither the state of my health, nor the time which I can conveniently spare from my publick duties, will allow me to continue my journey farther than this point.—I shall, however, have seen enough of New-England, to satisfy me, that in all the elements of prosperity, and in the happy use of the moral and social improvement, she may well be proud of the high character, she has acquired. I do not doubt, also, that those sections further east and north, which I have not seen, and which I shall not be able to visit, would only extend without changing the features of this pleasing prospect. Tendering you again, Sir, my thanks for the cordial terms, in which you have welcomed my arrival at this spot, I can, only assure you in conclusion, that I shall ever retain a lively remembrance of the honor conferred upon me by this State ranking as it does, among the foremost for its attachment to the Union, and the steady support which its citizens have given to the cause of republicanism."

The President was then introduced, by the Governor, to the Hon. Council and to the President of the Senate, who introduced him to the Senators. He was then introduced, by the Governor to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, who introduced him to the members of the House of Representatives.

To which the president replied—

"Gentlemen of the Senate,—

Impressed with the conviction that it is to your kindness rather than justice, that I am indebted for this flattering testimonial of your confidence, any confession of my obligations for the claims you have to my most grateful acknowledgements, would be but a feeble and inadequate expression of my feelings. The high trust, committed to me at the commencement of the session, was accepted with mixed emotions of gratitude and solicitude. Fully sensible of the honor of the station assigned me by your partiality, I was no less sensible of my inadequate qualifications to discharge its duties as their importance demanded, or as you in your liberal confidence had a right to anticipate. If success has attended any effort to direct our legislative course, to the members of the Senate, and not to their presiding officer, it should be ascribed. Your unremitting attention, harmonious action, and gentlemanly and generous support has rendered my duty easy and pleasant, and, in a great degree, removed that diffidence which was too well founded in inexperience and ignorance of the peculiar forms and rules of legislation. The many er-errors committed in the discharge of my official duty may justly be regarded as unintentional and will receive, from your liberal charity and honorable feelings, a ready pardon.

It is now the hour of our separation, and we leave this hall and those with whom we have intimately associated and formed those friendly and endearing attachments which will cease only with our existence.

Admonished by the vicissitudes that constantly await us, that we may never reassemble here, permit me to add my most fervent wishes for your safe return to your friends, and my most sincere prayers for your future prosperity and happiness."
